

Joachim Schoss joins Abilect as Investor and President of the Board

Chavannes-de-Bogis, Switzerland, September 09, 2022 - Abilect, the leading digital ecosystem for property services in Switzerland, announces Joachim Schoss has joined our organisation as an investor and as the President of our board.

Joachim Schoss, the founder of Scout24 - one of Europe's most successful online businesses, is one of Europe's most successful entrepreneurs. His involvement with Abilect as an investor and President of the board will bring decades of experience in the successful building of digital solutions for the European real estate industry.

As Abilect continues its fast-growing trajectory, Joachim's involvement will allow Abilect to take the required crucial strategic steps forward to accomplish our mission to become the leading 360° proptech solution for all property-related requirements internationally.

Joachim Schoss commented, “Convinced of the great benefits Abilect offers to customers and service providers alike, I strongly believe in Abilect’s great potential and look forward to supporting the team in its further development.”

Esha Indani, founder and CEO of Abilect reacted, “Joachim is a brilliant strategist when it comes to growing a digital product for the real estate sector and brings a wealth of experience that will be vital to the further growth of the Abilect ecosystem. We are grateful for his involvement and trust and look forward to taking Abilect to the next stage together.”

A very warm welcome to Abilect, Joachim!

About Joachim Schoss

About Abilect

Abilect is a leading digital ecosystem solution for all property related services in Switzerland. Following a successful launch into the market in 2020, Abilect has rapidly progressed with its activities nationally and has secured several strategic partnerships with major organisations in the country, such as Migros and Salt. Abilect believes that the future of real estate and construction lies in digitalisation and sustainability – it is therefore our mission and vision to provide a 360° solution that integrates digitalisation and sustainability to enhance, facilitate and optimise the way in which individuals and organisations experience and operate their properties.
